WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

Washington, April 20, 1907.

Those who have been looking for a fresh sensation can rest quite satisfied. They have it in the proposition the President has advanced to cut off the election contributions and have the legitimate election expenses of all parties paid by the national government. This might raise a wail from the anti-paternalists, for it would be paternalism of a sort, in fact of the most pronounced sort. But it would be fair to all parties and it ought to result in freeing the elections from the taint and suspicion of money illegitimately used. The plan has not yet been put forth officially, but it has been talked over at the White House and the President is understood to be decidedly in favor of it. So far as the details have been worked out, it is that the several praties should be apportioned funds for legitimate election expenses in proportion to the vote that they polled at the last preceding similar election. This would keep the government disbursement from being all in the hands of the two big parties. The funds would be as carefully audited as any of the other disbursements of the government, and not only would the people know where each dollar of the money had gone, but they would see to it that election expenses were kept down within something like reasonable limits. It would settle the question of corporate campaign contribution, would relieve the corporations from being "held up" by enterprising campaign solicitors and would assure all candidates of sufficient funds to meet their legitimate ontlay.

It is just the sort of an unpleasant proposal for the President to make, one that the machine politicians on neither side will relish, and yet one that nobody could honestly and reasonably oppose. It would make the election cease to to depend on the size of the "Bar' l," and would throw hosts of ward heelers out of a job. It will be delightful if the suggestion is submitted to Congress to see the number of ways in which the professional politicians will try to get out of fairly facing the issue. It is almost sensation enough for one week, and will give a number of "statesmen" something to think about between now and the next session of Congress.

The State Department received this week another $50,000 in aid of the Chinese famine fund. This has beon forwarded to the Missionary relief committee in China from whom a report has just been received showing the progress of the work up to date. There has been over $200,000 contributed by this country since the call for funds by the President, and the missionary committees state that they have now on their register 400,000 famine sufferers who are being fed from the funds and all of whom it is believed can be kept alive tlll the next harvest, which premises to be reasonably good.

Program of Events at the Jamestown Exposition.

The ceremonies incident to the opening of the Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition on April 26th, 1907, will be under the direction of Mr. G T. Shepperd, Secretary of the Jamestown Exposition Company, assisted by Lieutenant P. H. Bagby, 6th United States Infantry, Military Attache to the Department of the Secretary.

At sunrise on April 26th, the Norfolk Light Artillery Blues, stationed at the Exposition Grounds, will fire a salute of three hundred guns to usher in the commencement of the day opening the Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition in commemoration of the three hundredth anniversay of the first English settlement in America.

Upon the arrival of President Roosevelt on the Mayflower, in Hampton Roads, a salute will be fired by the United States and foreign war ships there assembled.

When the President arrives at the Exposition Grounds he will be met at the end of the Pier by a military escort and will be saluted by the United States Artillery, stationed on the Exposition Grounds. Promptly at the hour of 11:30 the President will be escorted to the Reviewing Stand, on Lee's Parade, in the rear of the Auditorium Building, where the following exercises will take place.

Opening prayer by the Right Reverend Alfred Magill Randolph, Bishop of the diocese of Southern Virginia.

Address and introduction of the President of the United States by the Hon. Harry St. George Tucker, President of the Jamestown Exposition Company.

Address by the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States.

Opening of the Exposition by the President of the United States.

When the President presses the gold button, starting the machinery of the Exposition in motion, it will, at the same time, be the signal for the unfurling of more than one thousand flags on the various buildings of the Exposition. The pressing of this button will also be the signal for a salute to the Union by the United States and foreign ships assembled in Hampton Roads and by the garrison at Fort Monroe. At the conclusion of the salute all of the bands on the Exposition Grounds will play the "Star Spangled Banner," at which time the troops will salute the anthem by presenting arms and the entire concourse will be expected to uncover during the rendition of this ceremonial.

Immediately thereafter the President of the U. S. will review the parade of which Major General Frederick D. Grant of the United States Army will be Grand Marshall, which will be participated in by the soldiers and sailors of the United States and foreign governments and National Guard. The governors of the different States of the Union having a military representation in the parade with their staff, Boxes on the Reviewing Stand, will be assigned to those governors who do not participate in the parade.

On the Reviewing Stand, besides the President of the United States and his Cabinet, will be the Diplomatic Corps officera and directors of the Jamestown Exposition Company, members of Congress the General Assembly of Virginia, United States and State Commissioners to the Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition, official representives from the different states of the Union, officers of the various historical societies and the municipal officers of the cities surrrounding Hampton Roads.

Should the weather be unfavorable these opening exercises will be held in the Auditorium Building to which invitation cards will be issued to the distinguished guests.

From five to six p. m., a reception will be tendered the President of the United States by the officers and directors of the Jamestown Exposition Company in the rotunda of the Exposition Building. At this reception the President will receive the Diplomatic Corps, the Governors of the different states and the official representatives to the Jamestown Exposition.

Admission to the ceremonies in the Auditorium, and in the Reviewing Stand and to the President's reception, will be by card.

The Governors of the following states will be present: Maryland, Mississippi, Connecticut, West Virginia, Rhode Island, Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia, Louisiana, Delaware, New Hampshire, Florida, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Alabama, Indiana and several other states.

It is resonable to aspect that we will have as many as twenty Governors, with their respective staffs and some military representations from their National Guard.

The following historical societies will be officially represented: Sons of the American Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Society of the Cincinnatii Society, of Colonial Wars, United Confederate Veterans, Grand Army of the Republic and many other patriotic organizations.

The members of the Diplomatic Corps, together with the Cabinet Officers, and other official guests from Washington, will arrive at the Exposition Grounds on the morning of April 25th, where they will be met by the Reception Committee, made up of the directors of the Jamestown Exposition Company, and escorted to their respective quarters.

G. T. SHEPPERD, Sec'y.

Why Not Emporium?

The Phoenix Lead Company, while digging a tunnel in their mine located on the Shawaugunk Mountain in New Jersey, struck a vein of paying gold quartz. The tunnel revealed zinc, with traces of copper, and iron. Machinery has been purchased to develop the gold, and many persons are carrying gold and lead quartz in their pockets.

Near Monclora, Mexico, a mining operation was recenty performed for the purpose of reaching the workings of an old copper mine. But the contractors had hardly commenced digging before they discovered a mass of gold ore ranging from $15 to $20 per ton. This discovery led the mine owners to remove the top of the mountain Their labors were rewarded by the finding of fabulous riches. A great gold ore body was laid bare, which the experts state runs deep into the body of the mountain, and the value of this vein is worth millions of dollars.

Until quite recently Cameron county has depended upon its forests of timber for support, but an industrial revolution in this hitherto undeveloped part of the State has begun. Iron works, powder plants, and other prosperous industries point the trend of the times. Why not have the mineral resources investigated? Who knows if in the bosom of these mountain chains a hidden wealth may not await the fortunate finder?

And in this connection, why overlook the possibilities of the Sizerville water? It is wasting its benefits in that lone hamlet among the hills. Why not pipe it down to Emporium, and have a large summer resort here? Left in the hands of a straggling population the Sizerville water can never be conducted to a large enterprise, because tourists avoid the byways of the world. But if sufficient capital and ambition is enlisted to pipe it to the county town, in a very few years it is safe to predict that Emporium may be no mean rival of the famous Carlsbad Springs in Germany; for by actual analysis the water has the same properties. With mineral waters at our very doors, why do we overlook its advantages? Why are we indifferent to the population that could make a Saratoga if Sizerville and Emporium would but combine?

Lend us your water, sister hamlet, and presently we shall extend the boundaries of our little capitol, sweeping you into an embrace that will be far more profitable than if you try to stand alone. In union there is strength.

I would like to suggest a few other directions for prosperity to advance, but lest I weary the patience of your readers, I will abstain for the present.

Regal Shoes in Emporium.

Mr. Paul B. Zerbe, a representative of the Regal Shoe store, No. 1124 Eleventn avenue, Altoona, Pa., will be at the New Warner, on Thursday, April 85th, day and evening, with a complete spring line of men's and women's spring Regals. His visit will give the people of Emporium a very convenient opportunity of selecting and ordering their spring and summer footwear. A special sample room has been arranged for him, where those desiring new Regals can be waited upon as satisfactory as in any Philadelphia or New York store.

The Regal Shoe is well known in this vicinity for its correct style and highest grade of materials and workmenship. It has gained thousands of new customers through its famous feature of quarter size fittings.

Regals $4.00 and $3.50.

Pleasant Relations.

For several years past Emporium Borough has received very little, if any, consideration at the hands of the P. & E. R. R., notwithstanding the fact Emporium pays the P. R. R., more money than any station between Harrisburg and Erie. Repeated efforts have been made in the past to have the Erie Flyer stop at the upper station, with little attention paid to our requests. Our citizens recently sent in a petition, which was generally signed and promptly granted.

The following correspondence will explain itself:

RENOVO, PA., April 15, 1907.

MR. W. H. HOWARD,
Chief Burgess, of Emporium, Pa.

DEAR SIR—Referring to the petition recently presented by the residents of Emporium to have our Train No. 9, stopped at Emporium station proper, I would say that we will arrange, beginning with April 17th, 1907, to stop this train at the upper depot in Emporium, continuing the stop at Emporium Junction as heretofore.

Yours truly,
W. G. COUGHLIN,
Superintendent.

[REPLY.]

EMPORIUM, PA., April 23rd, 1907.

MR. W. G. COUGHLIN, Supt.
Renovo, Pa.

DEAR SIR:—Replying to your letter of April 15th, 1907, which came during my absence from home, allow me, on behalf of the citizens of the Borough of Emporium, to cordially thank pou for the action you have taken in regard to the petition which the citizens of this Borough recently presented to you for consideration. I am sure that we all appreciate the courtesy you have extended to us by granting our request and having orders issued that hereafter Train No. 8 will make a regular stop at the upper station in this Borough at about 5 o'clock in the morning, instead of flying by as heretofore.

If at any time in the future we can consistently do anything that will be of benefit to your Company, we will be very glad to return the compliment you have extended to us.

Again thanking you for the courtesy and wishing you success in your management of the Company's affairs, I remain,

Yours truly,
W. H. HOWARD,
Chief Burgess of the Borough of Emporium.

Enterprising Citizen.

John Kelley, Esq., who is now the largest individual owner of dwelling houses in Emporium, continues to erect more. His recent purchases on Fifth and Sixth streets will soon contain more dwellings. Mr. Kelley is doing more than than his share to supply a portion of the demand for houses. Would that others would follow his plans. Mr. Kelly is certainly to be commended.

"Preventics" will promptly check a cold or the grippe when taken early or at the "sneeze stage." Preventics cure seated colds as well. "Are You a Mason."

The most sober minded people often have a keen sense of humor, and the following story, which Eva Condon of the "Are You A Mason" company tells of a Quaker friend in Philadelphia, well illustrates this fact: "My venerable friend and his wife," said Miss Condon "were the most hospitable people I have ever known, but on one occasion they had a visitor who had prolonged his visit beyond all reason. So finally one day the old gentleman said:

"My friend, I am afraid thee will will never visit us again."

"Oh yes, I shall," said the visitor: "I have enjoyed my visit very much, I shall certainly come again."

"Nay," said the Quaker, "I think thee will will not visit us again."

"What makes you think I will not come again?"

"If thee does never leave," replied the old gentleman, "how canst thee come again?" At the Emporium Opera House, Thursday, May 2.

"Commercial Club" suggests to most minds a body of business men organized to promote trade. To a little town in Indiana the words mean a club of women formed for no commercial, political or reformative purpose, but with the single practical object of raising money for a town hall. The town has no place for general public gatherings, the town fathers made no move to supply a place, and the town mothers took the matter into their hands. There will be a town hall.

DUTY OF RAILROADS

THEY HANDLE TRAFFIC BUT DO NOT CREATE IT.

Their Sole Function Is to Transport the Products of Prosperity, and When Prosperity Wanes the Railroads Suffer in Proportion.

That greatest of railroad absorbers, Mr. E. H. Harriman, is quoted in a recent interview as saying that he favors a tariff revision, including the removal of duties on works of art; that steel rails are not works of art, but he wishes they were. From which it is plainly to be inferred that Mr. Harriman would like to see steel rails placed on the free list so that he could buy them cheaper.

Mr. Harriman is among the foremost opponents of federal and state interference with railroads. He objects to governmental regulation of rates, to laws prohibiting the payment of rebates to favored shippers, to statutory restrictions such as would forbid the buying of a railroad and the immediate inflation of its securities by the issue of stock and bonds three times the amount of the purchase price. To hinder or forbid transactions of this character is, in the opinion of Mr. Harriman, a harsh, revolutionary and destructive policy.

But he would welcome governmental intereference when it took the shape of free trade in steel rails. If congress would step in and help the railroads to beat down the price of American labor products, and also the price of American labor, Mr. Harriman would be greatly pleased.

We do not know the length of Mr. Harriman's nose, but should suppose it to be not a very long one. The end of his nose seems to be the limit of his vision regarding economic questions, and the shortness of his vision implies an excedingly short nose. It is evident that genius for mergers is his long suit, and that the ability to perceive the real source of prosperity and profit making in practical railroading is not among his accomplishments. Obviously he does not understand that the sole function of a railroad is to transport the products of prosperity, and that when these products shrink there must be an equivalent shrinkage in railroad earnings.

Free trade in steel rails would carry with it free trade in a very large number of other articles. Foreign prices, plus cost of transportation (about one per cent. as a general average), would determine prices in this country. Either we should have the great bulk of our wants supplied by foreigners, or we should be compelled to reduce wages so as to hold the American market against the competition of cheap foreign pay rolls. One or the other of the two horns of the dilemma must impale us. There is no escape.

With foreigners supplying the bulk of our requirements American wage paying, wage earning and wage spending must largely disappear. Would that be good for Mr. Harriman's railroads? Would they then carry as much freight and as many passengers as they now carry? If Mr. Harriman thinks they would, he had best look back to the low tariff period of 1893-1897 and count the railroad properties that went into the hands of receivers.

If, as the other alternative, American wages should be reduced 30, 40 or 50 per cent. from their present high level in order that Americans might continue to do the work of Americans, would the American freight bill be as large and the American passenger traffic as great? Unquestionably not. Railroads do not create traffic. They only carry it when industrialism has created goods to be carried, when wage earning and wage spending have created a market for those goods. Any reduction in the purchasing power of American wage earners would be instantly felt by American railroads. Take away any part of the tremendous volume of business furnished through meeting the consuming demands of American wage earners and there would be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth among the high finance apostles of our great railroad systems. James J. Hill would not then be saying that $5,000,000,000 is needed right now with which to provide additional trackage and other facilities for handling the enormous traffic that overwhelms the roads. The present pressure would quickly abate, and present facilities would be more than ample.

Mr. Harriman would then be merging bankrupt railroads, if he merged anything at all. This gentleman and the general body of manipulating magnates will do well to devote attention to their favorite pastime of finding a market for inflated securities so long as the law will let them. They shine in this branch of the business. But they should let customs tariffs alone. Least of all should they hanker for free trade in steel rails or any other product of American labor and industry. That way bankruptcy lies. If the governing brains of American railroads could grasp to the full the true relation of their own interests to the vast interests of production and employment they would be among the most earnest and active supporters of protection to be found in all the land.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson says the prosperity of the United States cannot be destroyed by Wall street furries. The people throughout the country are clearly of the same opinion.

WHAT THE ROW IS ABOUT.

Washington Post Has the Right Idea About Tariff Tangle.

Shrewdly and correctly the Washington Post estimates the true inwardness of our tariff tangle with Germany when it says:

"Germany wants to sell her sugar in our market in competition with the sugar trust. That is what the row is about."

Undoubtedly the chief cause of irritation has been the foolish dicker with Cuba. Prior to the time when we elected to favor Cuban sugar by a 20 per cent. tariff reduction German beet sugar came to this country at the rate of $10,000,000 a year. Directly following the conclusion of the reciprocity deal with Cuba our imports of German sugar fell to about $10,000 a year. The refusal of congress to lower the duty on refined sugar to correspond with the reduction of the tariff on Cuban raw sugar was an especial offense to Germany. The effect of that refusal was to put many millions of dollars annually into the pocket of the sugar trust and take many millions out of the pockets of German sugar growers. From that moment Germany began to study how to compel the United States to give fair treatment to German exports of sugar. Result, the high maximum tariff with which Germany threatens to discriminate against American exports unless substantial tariff concessions shall be granted in favor of German exports. That is what the row is about. The Post is absolutely right in this view. All the present trouble has grown out of the chapter of follies perpetrated in the name of Cuban reciprocity. Not alone did that misguided move involve a rank injustice to American growers of sugar and tobacco, a trade balance loss of $50,000,000 a year, and a loss of $15,000,000 to $18,000,000 a year in revenues, but it so angered Germany by its gross favoritism toward Cuban sugar planters and the American sugar trust that for nearly three years the club of German retaliation and revenge has been shaken in the face of our government. The Cuban blunder lies at the root of the present situation. That is what the row is about.

INTERNATIONAL GAME.

Uncle Sam—I chip one tariff.

Germany—I raise you with my double tariff.

France—I double that raise with a cottonseed oil tariff advanced from $1.20 to $5 per kilo (220 pounds).

Uncle Sam—Hadn't we better postpone this game a few months? When my congress meets next December and passes the McCleary bill I'll be ready to see both of your raises and call both bluffs with a maximum tariff of my own.

"Not Make Tin Plate?"

One of the questions which William McKinley used to ask when he was stumping the country as an advocate of the protective tariff in 1892 was, "Not make tin plate?" Free traders insisted the manufacture of tin plate could never be a success in the United States. In answer McKinley produced the facts, such as they were. The United States was still a heavy importer of tin plates. More than 1,000,000,000 pounds had been brought in the year before.

Last year, the importations had been reduced to 127,000,000. Meanwhile tin plate of domestic manufacture is being exported in increasing quantities, more than 1,000,000 pounds of it last year. And besides this, practically every pound of tin plate which was brought into the country in 1906 was shipped out again in the form of cans, boxes and other manufactured articles. In such cases the exporter gets back 99 per cent. of the duty he has paid as "drawback."

Only 48 Per Cent.

The output of the German Steel syndicate during 1906, according to the Iron and Steel Trades Review amounted to 11,079,000 tons of finished and semi-finished products. As this quantity comes very near being equal to the total output of Germany, combination in that country may be said to have reached a degree of effectiveness not attained in the United States. Despite the talk about trusts in the United States, the greatest of the steel concerns does not boast a greater proportion of the country's output than about 48 per cent.—San Francisco Chronicle.

TERMS IN JAIL

Await Two Chicago Exponents of High Finance.

PAIR OF BANKERS,

One of Them Formerly a Judge of a Court, are Sentenced to Serve Time in the Penitentiary.

Chicago, Ill.—The jury in the defunct Bank of America conspiracy case returned a verdict last night, finding ex-Judge Abner Smith, the bank's president, guilty and giving an indeterminate sentence to the penitentiary and $1,000 fine. G. E. Sorrow, vice president, suffered the same sentence. Jerome V. Pierce, cashier, was fined $500 without imprisonment, while F. E. Creelman, a director, was found not guilty.

The Bank of America was opened on December 4, 1905, and a receiver was appointed six weeks later. The promoting of the institution was marked by what the state characterized as "high finance." During the trial witnesses testified that the charter for the bank was procured through fraud, it being said that the promoters of the institution "kited" checks for the alleged purpose of making it appear that they had sufficient funds to obtain the charter.

The closing of the bank followed the failure of a lumber company in which Creelman was heavily interested. An investigation of the bank's affairs at the time disclosed a great number of worthless notes, which, it was alleged, had been put up in payment for bank stock.

President Smith was for several years a judge of the Cook county circuit court. During the trial an effort was made to show that he was a victim of circumstances and had been imposed upon by other officers of the bank.

TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF.

Benedict Gimbel, Rich Philadelphia Merchant, Attempts Suicide.

New York. — Benedict Gimbel, the wealthy Philadelphia merchant who was arrested in this city Thursday on a double charge of exerting improper influence over Ivor Clark, a 16-year-old boy, and attempted bribery of the county detectives who made the arrest, lies in St. Mary's hospital, Hoboken, N. J., unconscious from wounds believed by the police to have been self-inflicted. It is thought that his injuries will prove fatal.

Bleeding from gashes on his throat and severed arteries in both wrists, Gimbel was found last night in a room at the Palace hotel in Hoboken. He was unconscious from loss of blood when he was removed to the hospital, where an examination of his effects made certain his identity.

Late Thursday night Gimbel was released from the Tombs.

CENTENARIANS WILL WED.

Man Who Is 101 Years of Age Intends to Marry a Woman on Her 100th Birthday.

St. Louis. — Announcement was made Friday that John B. Bundren, who on April 1 was 101 years old, will be united in marriage to Miss Rose McGuire, on her 100th birthday, August 26, 1907, on Mr. Bundren's estate near Tatesville, Tenn. Bundren and Miss McGuire were sweethearts in Tennessee in their youth, but neither has been married. Miss McGuire's parents would not let her marry Bundren in youth.

Bundren went to California and acquired considerable wealth. He returned to Tennessee and bought his birthplace near Tatesville. He decided to hold a reunion of old friends on his estate this year and sent out numerous invitations, including his old sweetheart.

BUSINESS BAROMETER.

Cold Weather Continues to Retard Trade in Many Branches.

New York.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Spring trade developed slowly because of unseasonable weather, but the lost ground will be recovered in large measure when normal temperature prevails. Cold weather has prevailed over an unusually large area, retarding agricultural progress as well as trade in light weight wearing apparel and other spring goods, but similar bad starts in other years have sometimes brought most favorable results.

The only actual damage of any account is reported in some winter wheat fields of the southwest, where insects and drouth combined to injure grain, and on most of this area some other crop has been planted.

A Plot to Kill the President.

Newark, N. J.—An alleged plot on the part of Pennsylvania anarchists, who are said to have headquarters at Hazleton, to assassinate President Roosevelt, is being investigated by the United States secret service.

Indicted for Embezzlement.

Muskogee, I. T. — Lyman K. Lane, formerly financial clerk for the United States Indian agent, has been indicted by a federal grand jury now in session, charged with embezzling $7,800 of government funds.

PEACE CONGRESS CLOSES.

Mr. Carnegie Is Honored by France—He Issues a Reply to President Roosevelt's "Objections."

New York.—The first convention of the national arbitration and peace congress came to an end last night after a three days' session, with two banquets, one at the Hotel Astor and the other at the Waldorf-Astoria. The event of greatest interest was the decoration of Andrew Carnegie with the cross of the Legion of Honor by the French government.

Mr. Carnegie, who is president of the congress, gave out a statement as to the results of the congress. Although not so designated by Mr. Carnegie, the statement constitutes a reply to some of the suggestions contained in the letter which President Roosevelt addressed to the congress. Mr. Carnegie quotes these statements as "objections" and answers them as follows:

"Our peace conference has brought three objections clearly before us.

"First—Nations cannot submit all questions to arbitration.

"Answer—Six of them have recently done so by treaty—Denmark, and The Netherlands, Chile and Argentina, Norway and Sweden.

"Second—Justice is higher than peace.

"Answer—The first principle of natural justice forbids men to judge when they are parties to the issue. All law rests upon this.

"Nations being only aggregates of individuals, they will not reach justice in their judgments until the same rule holds good, viz: That they, like individuals, shall not sit as judges in their own cause.

"Third—It is neither peace nor justice, but righteousness that shall exalt the nation.

A TIMELY CRUSADE.

Hundreds of New Yorkers Are Arrested for Carrying Concealed Weapons.

New York.—While squads of detectives are scouring the foreign quarters, working under the direct orders of Police Commissioner Bingham and picking up all the men they find armed the judicial officers of the greater city are showing evidence of their intention to co-operate with the police in breaking up the vicious practice of carrying deadly weapons.

On Wednesday, in the court of general sessions, Judge Rosalsky gave the heavy sentence of three years in Sing Sing to John Keen, a negro who had been arrested for disorderly conduct. A pair of brass knuckles were found on him.

District Attorney Jerome has prepared 50 cases against men charged with carrying concealed weapons and will present them to the grand jury today. In all 215 men have been locked up. Magistrates and judges all over the city are aroused.

Poisoners are Sentenced to Death.

Monterey, Mexico. — The supreme court of Mexico has affirmed the decision of the lower court in the cases of Hulbert, Mitchell and Harle, Americans, convicted of poisoning two other Americans for insurance money in Chihuahua, and the three men have been sentenced to death by the Chihuahua courts.

Fire Destroys a Town.

Toronto, Ont.—Latchford, a mining town in the Cobalt mining district, was destroyed by fire Wednesday night.

Strength Exceeding.

"My new cook says she lived once with you, and that she was sure you could give her a strong recommendation."

"Strong! I should say so! She broke the peace, my husband's spirit and the kitchen range."—Baltimore American.

A Reason for Keeping It.

He leaned over her tenderly.

"I would give anything to possess your hand," he sighed.

"Thank you, but I will keep it for myself," she answered.

For she was winning everything in sight at bridge.—Baltimore American.

Not So Easy.

"Some of our popular metaphors are extremely inaccurate as far as fact is concerned. I took candy from a baby once."

"What happened?"

"The baby took the place."—Baltimore American.

OUR SERIAL.

The Mystery OF Carney-Croft

By JOSEPH BROWN COOKE

(Copyright, 1907, by Story-Press Corporation.)

CHAPTER I.

A Mystery Is Started.

That old John Carney dropped dead of apoplexy in his saddle while violently cursing the stable-boy for a trivial delay in bringing his horse to the door was not regarded by the community as any special cause for regret, but that the boy, who was kicked in the head by the plunging and terrified beast, died a few hours later, was looked upon in the village as little short of murder.

Young John was in Honolulu, presumably keeping a watchful eye on the family's sugar interests, but probably devoting himself to sociological studies and charitable work among the natives. Florence, the only daughter, was the mistress of her father's house, her mother having died in the early nineties. She was the only member of the family at home when the accident occurred.

She telegraphed immediately to me, I being the youngest and practically the only active partner in the firm of lawyers that managed her father's affairs. I responded at once in person and was at Carney-Croft by noon the next day.

I was astonished, not only by the extent of the place, but at its beauty and almost baronial magnificence. There were acres upon acres of velvety lawns intersected by miles upon miles of well-bedded roads and bridle paths, while the timber had been weeded out by a master hand so craftily that one was given the impression of an old and long inhabited estate rather than of a park hewn out of a virgin forest within a single decade.

The house was even more of a surprise than the grounds, for although it was, in some respects, scarcely finished, it was already moss-grown and ivy-clad and suggested a Jacobean structure of very respectable antiquity.

Miss Carney was watching for me at the entrance, and came running down the steps of the broad terraces surrounding the mansion, to greet me the more cordially as I clambered out of the old-fashioned trap that had brought me from the station.

"You were good to come so soon," she said gratefully, extending her hand with winning grace. "I wanted to send a carriage to meet you, but all the stablemen have left since the little boy died. I have only the house-servants that we brought from town."

I made the best answer I could under the circumstances for, while her recent bereavement was more than enough to excite my deepest sympathy, the fact that her father had been our best client for many years gave to my presence at the house a mercenary taint not exactly consistent with noblesse oblige.

Luncheon was served as soon as I returned from my room, and I was seated opposite my hostess at a small round table. I had never seen Miss Carney before and it cannot be denied that the vision of my sweet-faced companion, partly concealed by the palms between us, was in no way unappreciated by my masculine eye. After luncheon we sat in the library and talked over briefly the events of the past few days.

I had learned from my garrulous driver in the forenoon the circumstances that accompanied Mr. Carney's tragic death, and my interview with his daughter had more to do with the arrangement of her future affairs than with any references to the past.

"I wish Jack were here," she said suddenly; "it is so hard to be alone."

"I cabled him as soon as I received your telegram," I replied, "and he can get a ship to-morrow or the day after. But must you be alone? Have you no friends here in the village?"

"Not one," she returned. "You know we live very much by ourselves out here and—and—the village people have never taken kindly to father—or—or—to me, for that matter. In fact," she continued, smiling wanly through her tears, "they think us worldly and purse-proud and—and 'stuck up,' if I must say it. And yet daddie tried to do so much for them, and laid out work that wasn't at all necessary and all that—just to give them employment. Why! last winter, when some of the people were nearly starving, he had ice cut in the river and piled up on the banks for weeks at a time to keep the men busy, but as soon as the warm weather came they forgot it all and even said he was a fool who threw away his money. No," she added slowly, "I haven't a friend in the village to whom I could turn."

"But there must be someone," I insisted; "somebody who could come here and stay with you until your brother returns."

She rested her elbow on the chair arm for a moment and pressed her hand against her temple. Then, raising her head quickly with a satisfied air, she exclaimed:

"Why, yes! I could send for Annie Weston, and she would be delighted to come! It would do the poor girl good, too," she added thoughtfully; "she has been ill so long and is just beginning to improve. That's exactly what I'll do!"

"Who is Annie Weston?" I asked with interest, for the idea seemed to have brought new hope into her eyes, and I was glad that it had come from my suggestion.

"Oh!" she was a school friend of mine and is the sweetest girl that ever lived," returned Miss Carney. "Her father and mother are both dead and she is quite alone in the world, so she can come just as well as not, and I know she will love to be here as much as I will to have her. I should have asked her to visit me long ago, but she was taken ill soon after we left school and is only beginning to get back her strength."

The day after the funeral I returned to the city and, rather than subject Miss Carney to any inconvenience by accepting her offer of the only carriage at her disposal since the stable hands had deserted the place, I rode to the railway station in the trap that had brought me down.

"So you're old Carney's lawyer, be ye?" inquired my driver, with rustic familiarity, crossing his legs and leaning one arm carelessly over the back of the seat in front of me.

I admitted that I was, with monosyllabic brevity, and we proceeded in silence for a few rods.

"'Spose he left plenty o' money?" was the next query.

"Enough for the needs of his family," I replied.

"Pshaw!" he returned, in evident disgust, "that's all ye'd say if he was worth ten thousand dollars!"

Another short period of silence elapsed, and then he began abruptly: "Powerful strange to me haow a drinkin' man like him could acoomilate so much money an' hold to it so tight."

"I'm A-Gittin' to That," He Replied.

"I never knew that Mr. Carney was a drinking man," I replied, with a sudden interest in my companion's gossip. "I mean," I continued, "I never knew that he drank to excess."

"Drink!" exclaimed the man. "Why! they wa'n't nuthin' he wouldn't do! Drink, smoke, gamble an' cuss, besides throwin' away his money on most wasteful things! When Sam Hoskins' boy was workin' up to the place he seen him an' another feller frum the city, a friend o' his'n, a-playin' poker one day, an' one or t'other of 'em, I fergit which 'twas, lost seven dollars an' 80 cents! An' as to drinkin', while he done most of it in the haouse, he wa'n't above takin' a glass at Hoskins' hotel every naow an' then, too!

"I rec'lec', one day, a-settin' on the stoop at Hoskins' waitin' fur a shaower to blow over, when I was a-gittin' in my hay, an' ole Carney drove up in his buggy. We was all a-talkin' abaout Freemasons, an' as he climbs aout I sez to him, sez I, 'Be you a Freemason?' sez I. 'No,' sez he, 'I hain't,' sez he, 'but I'm a free thinker,' sez he, 'an' I think I'll take a drink,' sez he. 'Ye won't be a free drinker,' sez Hoskins, under his breath and winkin' at me, as he follers him into the barroom to wait on him, an' sure enough, he tole us afterwards, he charged him reg'lar city prices, an' the ole man never knew the difference."

"By the way, what made the men leave the place so suddenly?" I asked, cautiously, thinking to divert the fellow's gabble into more profitable channels. "You know they have all gone, except the servants that were brought from the city."

"Wal," said the man with deliberation, slapping the horse's back with the reins and wriggling uncomfortably in his seat, "they left fur two reasons, I guess. In fac', the folks 'baout here ain't over anxious to work up to the place anyway, though they was allus willin' to be obligin' an' accommodate ole Carney when they wa'n't nuthin' else fur 'em to do; but naow, it's comin' on hayin' time, an' I s'pose they'd ruther work at hayin'."

The man had turned his back on me completely and was urging the horse forward at a rapid gait.

"Very generous of them to accommodate him when they had nothing else to do, and then leave his daughter as they have, just because haying time is here," I commented. "But you said there were two reasons. What is the other?"

We rode on in silence for quite a distance until, at length, the fellow responded in a gruff voice and without turning his head.

"Wal! it may be true an' it may be not! All I know is what I heerd up to Hoskins'. I don't take no great notice o' ghosts an' sich. But them men knows what they seen the night after the Widder Bruce's boy died, an' I know that ye couldn't git one of 'em on the place again with a team o' steers! No, sir! knowin' as they do, the character o' man that ole Carney was, an' the way he as good as murdered that poor lad with his cussin' an' quarrelin' an' fallin' off his hoss, 'stead o' goin' to the stable an' saddlin' up himself, like any man would that wa'n't too lazy to take off his coat when he et, it ain't no wonder they believed what the Widder Bruce tole 'em more'n a year ago!"

"What did the Widom Bruce tell them?" I asked anxiously, fearing that his communicative mood would leave him.

"Wal, she come over here from England with her boy 'baout the time ole Carney was a-buildin' his haouse, an' she sez, as soon as she seen it, that it was goin' to be jest like them places over in England where them dooks an' sech fellers live, that sooner or later someone 'ud die a vi'lent death there, an' then the place 'ud be ha'nted same's the dooks' places mostly is.

"O' course, we didn't pay no special attention to her.

"When her boy went up to the place to work, 'baout a year ago, she took on terrible, an' allus said no good 'ud come of it, an' that somethin' would surely happen. But they wa'n't no other way out of it, fur they didn't have a bite to eat nor a rag to wear, an' if the boy hadn't decided to accommodate Carney's folks I guess they'd ha' starved.

"Ye see," he continued, in explanation, "old Carney wouldn't never give a cent to anybody that was able to earn it, an' when the parson come to him an' ast him to help the widder, all he sez was, 'Send that big hulk of a boy up here an' I'll give him a job an' good pay so'z he kin support his mother like a man,' he sez, 'but I won't give her a damn penny so long as he's able to work an' earn it,' he sez."

"But you haven't explained yet why the men left," I persisted, for we were nearing our destination and my time was growing short.

"I'm a-gittin' to that," he replied. "Ye see, Carney was such a mean, stingy cuss that, what with his drinkin' an' gamblin' an' other vices, the widder allus claimed he'd never rest easy in his grave. When the boy was killed she carried on like a crazy woman, an' swore the place would allus be ha'nted 'less the estate did the honest thing by her an' give her enough to pay her fur the loss of her son. That night, more fur fun than anything else, a lot of the fellers that was a-settin' daown to Hoskins' went up by the haouse 'raound midnight, but they didn't see nuthin'. The nex' night—that's after you come—they all went up again, an' I tell you they all come back a-flyin'."

"What did they see?" I asked, with renewed interest, as a sudden idea entered my head.

HAUGH DIES.

Electric Chair Claims the Murderer of Three.

IN THE PEN ANNEX.

Dayton Doctor Who was Convicted of Killing His Parents and a Brother Is Electrocuted.

Columbus, O. — Dr. Oliver C. Haugh, the Dayton physician, was electrocuted early this morning for the murder of his parents and brother. He manifested an apparent indifference to his fate. All visitors were excluded from the annex at the penitentiary Thursday and Haugh saw no one outside of the prison officials except Father Kelley, his spiritual adviser.

Dr. Haugh never admitted the crime for which he was sentenced to death. He never discussed it, so his attendants say, after he entered the annex. He is reported, however, to have protested his innocence.

The murder of his parents and brother occurred on the night of November 4, 1905. The house in which the Haughs lived at Dayton was burned and when search of the ruins was made the bodies of the elder Haugh, his wife and a son were found. All circumstances indicated that the family had been murdered and the house burned to conceal the crime.

Dr. Haugh claimed he had barely escaped from the house with his life, and though he denied that he had committed any crime, suspicion pointed toward him and after his arrest a strong circumstantial case was made. His defense was insanity, but he was legally declared to be sane. It was brought out, however, that he was addicted to the use of a subtle drug known as hyosciene-hydro-bromate.

Later attempts were made to connect him with the murder of several women at Cincinnati who were mysteriously strangled.

He was also said to be involved with a Mary Twohey, who died under suspicious circumstances at Lorain, and with a Mrs. Annie Patterson, who died mysteriously at Chicago. Haugh was married and his wife, now divorced, and two children are living in Dayton.

During the early part of the night a break in the machinery at the Columbus public service plant threw the big prison into temporary darkness. The break did not interfere with the electrocution in any way, however, as the current for that purpose is supplied by the prison dynamo.

Gov. Harris received a great many letters from sentimental persons asking that the execution be stayed, but no attention was paid to them.

TEN IN THE RACE.

A Warm Contest for the Wisconsin Senatorship Made Vacant by John C. Spooner's Resignation.

Madison, Wis. — A deadlock exists in the contest for the seat in the United States senate occasionsioned by the resignation of Senator John C. Spooner. After several caucuses by the republican members of the legislature, who are in the majority, and the taking of two formal ballots in joint session, there appears no sign of an election.

There are ten candidates, five of whom lead with about an equal number of votes. Isaac Stephenson, the wealthy lumberman of Marinette, who has been a staunch supporter of United States Senator La Follette, both on state and national issues, in Thursday's joint ballot received 19 votes, being tied with Congressman John J. Esch.

Irvine L. Lenroot, ex-speaker of the assembly and also a strong adherent of La Follette, received 18 votes, as did also Congressman H. A. Cooper. William H. Hatten, of New London, came next with 15 votes. Emil Baensch, of Manitowoc, and F. C. Winkler, of Milwaukee, both so-called "Stalwarts," received six and three votes respectively, with the remaining republican votes scattering.

The democratic votes, 24 in number, have thus far been cast for George W. Bird, of Madison, while the social democrats have been supporting Assemblyman J. P. Rummel, of Milwaukee.

Mr. Stephenson at the outset of the contest issued a statement declaring that he was a candidate only for the unexpired term and would not seek re-election in case the honor were accorded him. Several conferences have been held with Senator La Follette in the interest of Stephenson, but not enough strength could be mustered to carry out the plans to seat the Marinette man. Friends of Congressmen Esch and Cooper are standing by their candidate without any indication of a break.

While considerable gossip has connected Gov. Davidson's name with the contest, he has as yet received no votes.

Found the Stolen $25,000.

St. Paul, Minn. — The $25,000 stolen from the office of the Northern Express Co. at the Union depot Tuesday night, was on Thursday recovered. John Gunderson, the robber, who was arrested Wednesday, confessed to the police where he had hidden the money.

Three Lives Lost in a Fire.

Montreal.—Fire on Thursday afternoon in the plant of the Canada steam laundry caused the loss of three lives, two men and a woman, and the injury of 12 others.

Rest is a great restorer. We tire our muscles by exercise and then rest to restore them; yet a great many of us do not stop to think how little rest we give to our stomachs. As a usual thing no part of our bodies is so generally overworked as our digestive organs. A tired and overworked stomach will give signs of distress to which we pay no heed until at last Dyspepsia takes hold. Indigestion is just a warning, and if we heed the warning we can easily avoid further consequences. KODOL is a most thorough stomach relief. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach the needed rest and greatly assits in restoring it to its normal activity and usefulness. KODOL is sold on a guarantee relief plan. It is sold here by R. C. Dodson.

The Price of Health.

"The price of health in a malarious district is just 25 cents, the cost of a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills," writes Ella Slayton, of Noland, Ark. New Life Pills cleanse gently and impart new life and vigor to the system. 25c. Satisfaction guaranteed at all druggists.

KODOL For Dyspepsia clears the stomach and makes the breath as sweet as a rose. KODOL is sold by druggists on a guarantee relief plan. It conforms strictly to the National Pure Food and Drugs Law. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Doing Business Again.

"When my friends thought I was about to take leave of this world, on account of indigestion, nervousness and general debility," writes A. A. Chrisholm, Treadwell, N. Y., "and when it looked as if there was no hope left, I was persuaded to try Electric Bitters, and I rejoice to say that they are curing me. I am now doing business again as of old, and am still gaining daily." Best tonic medicine on earth. Guaranteed by all druggists 50c.

OVER FIVE MILLIONS

So Experts Say, Is Total of Graft in Furnishing of New State Building.

RAILROADS MAY DEFY THE LAW

Reading and Pennsylvania Said to Contemplate Continuance of Present Passenger Rates Despite Two-Cent Law—Hulings Bill the Remedy.

Harrisburg, Pa. — Graft to the amount of $5,000,000! That is the sum estimated to have gone into the pockets of the favored capitol building contractors and the men "higher up." This estimate is based on the data gathered by the experts employed to make an inventory of the capitol building and its furnishings and on information gathered by the auditors.

The auditors who have been going over the contracts and accounts connected with the building of the new state house have almost finished their work. Within a few days they hope to make a complete report. Their work has been stupendous. Even though it has cost the state $25 a day for the chief auditor and $15 a day for each of his 10 assistants, besides an allowance of $5 a day for each man's hotel expenses, it is certain that the commonwealth is getting its money's worth.

The investigating commission also has in its employ quite a number of experts who have been making a careful and detailed examination of the entire building for the purpose of ascertaining the actual value of the furnishings. These experts are being paid $50 a day for their services. The results will show that the money spent in this way is a wise investment. It is through the work of these experts and auditors that the commissioners have been able at this stage of the investigation to make a good guess as to the total amount of the overcharges and stealings.

Many Obstacles Encountered.

The public probably never will know how much the investigators have had to contend with in their work. Naturally the big contractors and those who have shared in the "pie" and who would be affected by the inquiry were hostile to the probers from the very start and never have ceased to throw in their way every obstacle they could. Several prominent experts who were employed to ferret out certain things were bought off at the last minute and refused to go to work for the state and information of great value to the probers that had been promised from other sources has been withheld. But the commissioners expected this, and notwithstanding the setbacks are ready to spring some big surprises.

The investigators expect to call upon some of the big men of the state within a short time. Included in the list of witnesses who are to be subpenaed are former Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker, former Governor William A. Stone, Auditor General William P. Snyder, former Auditor General E. B. Hardenbergh, former State Treasurer William L. Mathues, former Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings James M. Shumaker, Joseph M. Huston, the architect; John H. Sanderson, contractor, George F. Payne, contractor, and H. Burd Cassel, contractor. Sanderson cannot be compelled to testify unless he should be found within the state's boundaries, as he makes his home in New York, but unless he does testify he is likely to prejudice his case when suit is brought against him by the state later on.

Will Resist Two Cent Fare.

Reports have been received here that several railroad companies, the Pennsylvania and Reading in particular, will refuse to comply with the two-cent maximum fare law when it goes into effect September 30. It is said that they will do so on the plea that they have special charter rights which antedate the constitution of 1873, the provisions of which they never have accepted. Legislators who were responsible for putting the two-cent bill through intend to block the game of the railroads. They propose putting through the Hulings bill, which provides that the state tax on all railroad companies shall be raised from five to ten mills after the first of next year, and exempts from the increase those which file formal acceptance of the terms of the constitution so that they will continue to pay the present rate. It will not pay the Pennsylvania or the Reading to get gay if the Hulings bill becomes a law.

Lydick Bill's Prospects.

A fight against the Lydick primary election bill is certain to be made when that measure reaches the senate. The bill makes it compulsory for boroughs and townships to hold primary elections. Some of the country legislators want boroughs and townships to have the option of accepting either the new or old law governing primary elections. They contend that because corruption at elections in the cities has made such a law necessary for them is no reason why it should apply to boroughs and townships. It is contended that in many boroughs and townships all parties get together and put up a ticket, thus saving the expense of a primary election. It is also argued that very few boroughs and townships accepted the uniform primary law last year, which goes to show that there is no demand for it in the country. An amendment allowing boroughs and townships the privilege of choosing either the old or the new law was knocked out in the house, but another effort in this direction is likely to be made when the bill gets before the senate.

Relief for Veterans—Perhaps.

There is a lot of squirming over the Cochran pension bill which, if it becomes a law, would cost the state about $5,000,000 a year. If this measure should be passed it would deprive some of the large institutions of the state of a large share of their appropriations. It is not intended to raise the revenues any more than can be helped, and it is also desired to keep about $10,000,000 in the state treasury. As there are certain fixed expenses to be met each year it requirs little figuring to learn that if $5,000,000 is to be spent on pensions in addition to the other appropriations something or somebody is going to suffer. It is a ticklish bill to oppose. Legislators have been besieged by old soldiers and their friends to pass the bill.

It is desired to increase the school appropriation to the extent of about $3,000,000, and it is also desired to increase largely the good roads appropriation, which is regarded as highly necessary. The house has killed several big revenue producing measures, and unless money is forthcoming from other sources it will be impossible to give the old soldiers the $5,000,000 a year which they are asking for.

Will Boom Trolley Lines.

The trolley eminent domain bill having passed the house is now on its way through the senate with prospects favorable to its final passage. As amended this bill provides that all companies taking advantage of the new right must become common carriers of express matter and light freight. It is expected that when this bill becomes a law many new traction lines will be built in the state.

To Encourage Breeders.

The Ambler bill providing for the registration and publication of the pedigree of any stallion, bull, ram or boar kept for sale or exchange, and which is represented to be pure bred, is likely to become a law. The purpose of the bill is to improve and encourage stock breeding and to prevent farmers and stock raisers from being swindled by anyone who may have been accustomed to "live by his wits." Anyone who shall fraudulently represent any animal as thoroughbred or who fails to have such animal registered as required by the act, or who otherwise may violate the provisions of the act is subject to a fine of $100 and imprisonment in the county jail for 30 days.

An Unpopular Measure.

Among the numerous bills that have been introduced whose purpose is to raise money for road purposes is one levying a tax on all traction engines. The measure is hardly likely to pass for the reason that there are other good roads measures much more popular than this one. These traction engines are much needed by farmers, and a tax on them would mean just that much out of the farmer's pocket. Objection has been raised to them because they frighten horses, but when it comes to this automobiles are more objectionable and more numerous by far than the traction engines.

There seems to be a good deal of sentiment in favor of the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution so as to provide that female residents may vote for school directors or officers and upon all questions relating to the maintenance and regulation of the public schools. It is argued in its favor that as a rule mothers take a greater interest in the education of the children than the fathers for the same reason that they look after their personal interests more and for that reason women should be at least as well qualified as men to vote for school directors or upon all subjects relating to the schools. The plan is in use in some places, and it is urged that a general law on the subject would be all right.

House Calendar Large.

The house calendar is now the largest it ever has been in the history of the legislature. There are several hundred bills on it in various stages of passage. Some of them, of course, will never get through, but the majority of them are scheduled for passage.

Some important bills have passed both houses and are now in the hands of the governor. These include the following:

Authorizing trolley companies to carry freight; repealing the Salus-Grady "press muzzler;" requiring names of newspaper owners, managing editors and publishers to be printed in a conspicuous place in the publications; authoring the examination and licensing of practitioners of osteopathy; permitting the killing of carp, suckers, mullets and eels with gigs or spears; validating the title of real estate taken and held by foreign corporations without first having established places of business and authorized agents in Pennsylvania; authorizing wholesale liquor dealers to take liquors from kegs or barrels and place them in bottles for sale; providing for the regulation and licensing of slaughter houses in Philadelphia; enabling tax collectors to collect taxes for which they have become personally liable.

The Smith bill to permit brewers to sell their product to any person was killed in the house. The senate killed the McCord senatorial bill passed by the house, which provided for a popular vote on candidates for the United States senate.

Look Into Space.

A young man whose eyes had been troubling him consulted a New York oculist. "What you want to do," said the specialist, "is to take a trip every day on the ferry or in New Jersey, Long Island—any place where you can see long distances. Look up and down the river, across fields or, if the worst comes to the worst, go on the top of a skyscraper and scan the horizon from that point. The idea is to get distance. You use your eyes a great deal and always at close range. You can't use them any other way in town. Even when not reading or writing the vision is limited by small rooms and narrow streets. No matter in what direction you look, there is a blank wall not far away to shut off sight."

Catching Butterflies.

To catch butterflies you must reach out after them. As a rule you won't catch many in your hand. You must use a net. It is the net that scoops them in.

A hand reach in catching butterflies is no better than a handbill in catching business. It is the net that counts.

The net is the newspaper. This reaches out to all the people and scoops them in. Experience of several generations has shown that the newspaper is the best business bringer.

Take, for instance, this paper. (Most people take it.) An announcement in this paper goes into the homes of the people whom you must reach if you get the business you are after.

There is, indeed, a very much larger net that scoops in the business butterflies. It is stretched out not only over this community, but over every similar community in the land. It is the mail order net, made up of big catalogues and of advertisements in periodicals which are circulated broadcast to catch the unwary.

To prevent that great net—which is really an octopus with a thousand tentacles—from catching your trade away from you, wisdom suggests that you use your home net—the local newspaper.

Usually a word to the wise is sufficient.

If you want to keep your patronage or build it up, you must compete with the butterfly catchers from the outside.

The Dollar is the Butterfly. It has green wings, and is attractive to merchants in the big cities just as it is attractive to you.

If you would catch these pretty butterflies that are circulating around home, you must use the net that circulates around home.

A SOCIAL LEADER OF KANSAS CITY

Attributes Her Excellent Health to Pe-ru-na.

MRS. W. H. SIMMONS.

MRS. W. H. SIMMONS, 1119 E. 8th St., Kansas City, Mo., member of the National Annuity Association, writes:

"My health was excellent until about a year ago, when I had a complete collapse from overdoing socially, not getting the proper rest, and too many late suppers. My stomach was in a dreadful condition, and my nerves all unstrung.

"I was advised by a friend to try Peruna, and eventually I bought a bottle. I took it and then another, and kept using it for three months.

"At the end of that time my health was restored, my nerves no longer troubled me, and I felt myself once more and able to assume my social position. I certainly feel that Peruna is deserving of praise."

There are many reasons why society women break down, why their nervous systems fail, why they have systemic or pelvic catarrh. Indeed, they are especially liable to these ailments. No wonder they require the protection of Peruna. It is their shield and safeguard.

HOW TO ADVERTISE

EFFECTIVE METHODS THAT WILL BRING RESULTS.

SHOULD TELL THE PRICES

Generalities Are Meaningless to the Public—Why the Mail-Order Man Wins—Try the Plan.

If you, Mr. Merchant, would compete with the mail-order houses there are three main essentials to success—the goods—the prices—advertising.

The last of these is quite as essential as either of the others.

In the great majority of cases the local merchant has the goods, and he makes the prices, but in very many cases he either fails to do the advertising, or what he does do is not effective in the same way that the mail-order man's advertising is effective.

The writing of effective advertising is not an art, it is not a business that requires years of study to learn. A few hours of study and comparison will give you every essential detail that you will need.

It is comparatively safe to say that 75 per cent. of the advertising carried by local merchants in the local papers is worded in generalities only. Such advertisements as the following are found in every paper:

GO TO
FOR
Hardware, Stoves and Tinware
BEST GOODS LOWEST PRICES

The mail-order man's advertising is different. It is specific, and while the glowing descriptions given are often misleading—a thing which Blank's advertising should never be—they attract the attention of the reader and possible purchaser because they tell about some one thing that he may possibly want.

The mail-order man makes a run on a few things which he is willing to sell at a close margin of profit in order to attract trade in his general line on which heavy profits are made. Blank should advertise hardware in much the same manner the mail-order man advertises hardware, and he has this advantage—he can invite the people of the community to visit his store and see the goods for themselves so they will know just what they are buying.

If, instead of expressing meaningless generalities in a two-inch space, Blank had used a little more space and properly displayed an advertisement something like the following he would have been sure to have attracted attention to his store, and in all probability would have been surprised at the drawing power of his advertising:

WASHDAY BARGAIN SALE
AT
EVERYTHING NEEDED FOR WASHDAY AT BARGAIN PRICES
During Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week

18c for 50 foot white Cotton Braided Clothes Line.

24c for 12-qt. heavy galvanized iron water or scrub pail.

45c for best quality fiber Water Pail of exceptional merit.

79c for an excellent quality of ironing boards that will not warp.

54c for an extra large heavy willow Clothes Basket.

The prices given here are of course mere fiction, but the prices Blank should quote in his advertisement should show the public that he is giving bargains; they should be prices that would compare favorably with the prices of the mail-order catalogues, and he should impress it upon the public that he not only shows them what they are buying before they pay for it, but that the purchaser has no freight to pay, and does not have to wait an interminable time for the goods he buys, as when ordering of the mail order houses.

It is specific advertising that draws. The advertiser who describes in detail the goods he has to sell, and quotes the price he asks for it will attract the favorable attention of the public far more often than the one who deals only in generalities. It is this kind of advertising that pays. It is this kind of advertising that is attracting the dollars from the smaller cities and towns and farms to the mail-order houses of the city. It is this kind of advertising that drew $200,000,000 into the coffers of the Chicago mail-order houses alone last year, and it is this kind of advertising on the part of the local merchants that the mail-order houses fear more than any other one thing.

But, Mr. Merchant, whether your line be hardware, dry goods, groceries, clothing or other commodities, it is well to go further than your newspaper advertising, though this is the foundation of success. Go to the local printer and have him make you little catalogues of your own. They do not need to be large affairs, but small folders of four, eight or 16 pages. Put into these folders the descriptions and prices of the goods you are carrying, or leaders in the line. Be sure that the prices quoted are right, then put one of these into the hands of every customer; keep them circulating throughout the community, and make a practice of getting out a new one every few weeks.

You, Mr. Merchant, can make advertising pay larger returns than the mail-order man secures; you can make it the mainstay of your business, and you can make it the means of killing the mail-order competition in your community. And when you do this do not begrudge the publisher the reasonable price he asks you for adequate space in his columns. He will give you better value than any other commodity you can buy.

WRIGHT A. PATTERSON.

By the aid of the editor the home magnate out of the home community is advertise; advertise systematically what you have to offer, and tell it so they will understand. merchant can ride the mail-order on the rail of publicity. The moral and persistently. Tell the public

NO THORNS IN HER PATH.

Josephine Daskam Writes in Tribute of the Golden Rule.

"I believe myself to be notably fortunate in my relations with my domestic employes. During a period of eight years, in which I have employed household labor in four widely different places, I have never once been addressed with intentional disrespect by any person in my employ," says Josephine Daskam Bacon in the American Magazine.

"I have never been left a day without my regular staff of employes, which has varied from one to five (that is to say, that I have never been left suddenly or without sufficient notice to supply the vacancy).

"I have never had a satisfactory worker leave me except for what I considered a good reason (in the majority of cases an advantageous marriage).

"I have never lost an unsatisfactory one except by my own dismissal. I have never to my knowledge, or even suspicion, suffered the loss of a penny's worth by theft, and my record for breakage is such that it produces utter incredulity.

"In three cases out of four I have had services willingly and frequently offered me along lines where it was not expected or requested. I have had extra money offered by me to offset extra work occasioned by sickness refused on the ground that at such times all the household expected to share the trouble.

"And as a climax I am able to state that once, at least, on my offering a raise in wages to express my appreciation of competent and devoted service I was met with the astounding suggestion that as my expenses were heavy at the time and likely to increase I had better not consider it."

Encourage Saving.

The wise father and mother will never discourage the fancies of their children for accumulating things. It is a natural instinct, inborn in the most of people, and given a little thought and care by the older heads may be turned to good account. If the child begins to collect "pretty" pebbles or shells at the seashore don't throw them out—but let them form the basis of a little geological collection, and with proper guidance the youngster will soon be looking upon "sticks and stones" with an interested and educated eye.

SPLENDID APRIL TONIC.

Easily Prepared at Home and Harmless to Use.

This is known as "Blood-Cleaning Time," especially among the older folks, who always take something during this month to clean the blood of impurities and build it up.

The following is the recipe as given by a well-known authority, and anyone can prepare it at home:

Get these simple ingredients from any good pharmacy and mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Everybody should take something to help the blood, which becomes impoverished and almost sour after the winter season, especially those who are subject to Rheumatism, Catarrh, Kidney and Bladder trouble.

It is said that one week's use of this mixture will clear the skin of sores, pimples or boils.

This is sound, healthy advice, which will be appreciated by many readers.

HAD NERVE, BUT NO MONEY.

Unlucky Man's Modest Request for Pecuniary Assistance.

Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, while in New Orleans a few months ago, took the opportunity of going to the races. During the afternoon he cashed several tickets, the result of good guesses. He was feeling happy after the last race, and started for the automobile which was to convey him back to his hotel. As he was about to climb into the machine he felt a hand on his arm, and a man shouted in his ear:

"Hello, Hitchcock, how are you? Hear you put a crimp in the bookies to-day."

Hitchcock blushed and shook hands sheepishly, not recognizing the man, and not wishing to show it.

"Say, I want to speak to you confidentially," said the stranger.

"All right; what is it?" asked the comedian.

"Well, I am up against some hard luck to-day. They cleaned me and I want to get home. Now, don't let any one of these people see you, but slip me enough for car fare, will you?"

"Sure," said Hitchcock, placing his hand in his pocket. Then he paused and queried: "Where do you live?"

"Vancouver," was the answer.

Hitchcock took a flying leap for his machine, and unless the visitors at New Orleans are more gullible, the impecunious one is still looking for car fare.—Harper's Weekly.

ROMANTIC DEVONSHIRE.

The Land Made Famous by Philpotts' Novels.

Philpotts has made us familiar with romantic Devonshire, in his fascinating novels, "The River," "Children of the Mist," etc. The characters are very human; the people there drink coffee with the same results as elsewhere. A writer at Rock House, Orchard Hill, Bideford, North Devon, states:

"For 30 years I drank coffee for breakfast and dinner but some 5 years ago I found that it was producing indigestion and heart-burn, and was making me restless at night. These symptoms were followed by brain fag and a sluggish mental condition.

"When I realized this, I made up my mind to quit drinking coffee and having read of Postum, I concluded to try it. I had it carefully made, according to directions, and found to my agreeable surprise at the end of a week, that I no longer suffered from either indigestion, heart-burn, or brain fag, and that I could drink it at night and secure restful and refreshing sleep.

"Since that time we have entirely discontinued the use of the old kind of coffee, growing fonder and fonder of Postum as time goes on. My digestive organs certainly do their work much better now than before, a result due to Postum Food Coffee, I am satisfied.

"As a table beverage we find (for all the members of my family use it) that when properly made it is most refreshing and agreeable, of delicious flavor and aroma. Vigilance is, however, necessary to secure this, for unless the servants are watched they are likely to neglect the thorough boiling which it must have in order to extract the goodness from the cereal." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

BACKACHE AND DESPONDENCY

MISS LENA NAGEL

Are both symptoms of organic derangement, and nature's warning to women of a trouble which will sooner or later declare itself.

How often do we hear women say, "It seems as though my back would break." Yet they continue to drag along and suffer with aches in the small of the back, pain low down in the side, dragging sensations, nervousness and no ambition.

They do not realize that the back is the main-spring of woman's organism and quickly indicates by aching a diseased condition of the feminine organs or kidneys, and that aches and pains will continue until the cause is removed.

made from native roots and herbs has been for many years the most successful remedy in such cases. No other medicine has such a record of cures of feminine ills.

Miss Lena Nagel, of 117 Morgan St., Buffalo, N. Y., writes:— "I was completely worn out and on the verge of nervous prostration. My back ached all the time. I had dreadful periods of pain, was subject to fits of crying and extreme nervousness, and was always weak and tired. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures Female Complaints, such as Backache, Falling and Displacements, and all Organic Diseases. Dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage. It strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache and Indigestion and invigorates the whole feminine system.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free.

ILL FROM OVERWORK

By Toning up the Blood and Nerves Patient Recovered Weight, Strength and Good Spirits.

When the nervous system is broken down from overwork, or whatever cause, life loses its joys. Not only is the nervous victim a sufferer himself but he is usually a trial to the whole family. Nervous breakdown is often gradual, appearing at first to be merely an unusual fretfulness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills tone up the nerves in the most direct way and not only cure minor troubles but serious disorders as well.

Mr. W. W. Munroe, of 16 Hazel Park, Everett, Mass., says: "About four years ago this September I became all run down from overwork and from confinement to work during warm weather. For two months I grew steadily worse. I lost in weight and strength and had no appetite. My memory failed me quite rapidly and I became in a very low state, both physically and mentally. I took no interest in life, neither in business nor recreation. In my position, as foreman in a large manufacturing chemist's establishment in Boston, a good memory is absolutely essential to success because of the immense amount of detail that must be carried in the head.

"I grew very despairing, could not bear to have people meet me and my friends remarked on my condition. About the middle of December a friend told me one day that he had tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and found them reliable. I commenced taking them and at the end of two weeks the change for the better was remarked by friends. I continued using the pills until I was thoroughly recovered. I regard them as a fine remedy and make this statement voluntarily in gratitude for the benefit I received from them."

These pills actually make new blood and have cured such diseases as rheumatism, nervous and general debility, indigestion, nervous headache, neuralgia and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia. As a tonic for the blood and nerves they are unequalled.

If you are a sufferer from any disorder of the blood and nerves write for proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have accomplished in cases similar to yours. Every testimonial used by this company is carefully investigated before being published and is authentic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or direct by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Soldiering in China.

Corporal Frank Hayden, of the army recruiting station, who spent a year of army service in China, says it is a good country to "soldier" in. "The worst thing about China and the islands," he said, "is that there's no one to associate with except the natives. Otherwise they're good places, China especially, to do military service. Food of good quality is very cheap. We could buy 175 eggs there for 50 cents American money or one dollar 'Mex.' Ten cents would buy a fine fat chicken and 60 cents a good sheep. The Chinese are good cooks and we could employ one for a very little money over his board."—Kansas City Times.

BABY WASTED TO SKELETON.

In Torments with Terrible Sores on Face and Body—Tore at Flesh—Cured by Cuticura.

"My little son, when about a year and a half old began to have sores come out on his face. They began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton and was hardly able to walk. I sent to the drug store and got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since, and only for the Cuticura Remedies my precious child would have died from these terrible sores. I used only one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D. No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 22, 1905."

THE DAIRY

STERILIZING MILK CANS.

Steam is the Most Thorough Agency in the Process.

Where steam can be employed, its application to dairy utensils forms one of the best means of sterilizing them. A simple method by which to use it is shown in the accompanying cut, taken from Farm and Home. The table is about two feet high and three feet square. Covered with galvanized iron, the outer edge of the top is highest and the center, where the drip is located, lowest. Preferably this should be connected with a sewer or a good drain, but may be caught in a pail. Near the drip is also the steam jet which, with the valve for operating it conveniently at hand, makes it very simple to steam out a 40-quart can by setting it over the jet and turning on the steam. Likewise separator bowls, small churns, butter workers, and, in fact, almost anything movable in or about a creamery can be sterilized at a minimum of labor.

TUBERCLE BACILLI IN BUTTER.

Not as Apt to Be Present in Butter Made from Sour Cream.

It has been assumed that butter as well as milk contains tubercle bacilli at times and is therefore a source of danger. But little is as yet known about what happens to the bacilli in cream and in butter, but here and there are going on investigations that have in them much of interest. It is possible that in butter are found other forms of bacterial life that are more powerful than the disease germs and are able to destroy them. This seems to be indicated from experiments that have been made at various times, though we must not assume that the matter is as yet settled. In Germany some experimenters added some tubercle bacilli to sweet cream and made butter of it. After ten days the butter was examined and the bacilli found to be alive. It was examined 15 days after being made and the tubercle bacilli were found to be dead. It is possible that the increase of ferments in the butter resulted in the destruction of the disease germs. This was further indicated by the results of placing some of the bacilli in sour cream and making butter out of that. The germs were found to be alive after seven days, but dead after ten days. This is an encouraging feature of the examination. We may conclude from it, says Farmers' Review, that if there is danger of tubercle bacilli being present in milk that is to produce the cream for butter, it is better for the butter to be made from sour cream than from sweet cream. It seems quite evident that the lactic acid ferments are enemies of the disease germs.

Raising Heifers.

Heifers intended for the dairy should have foods rich in ash, to make bone, and rich in protein, to make muscle and blood. Don't allow them to form the "fat habit" by giving too much starchy food, such as corn. Once a heifer has formed the "fat habit" it is very difficult to prevent her putting the increase on her back instead of into the pail, when she has been in milk for six months.

Pasteurization.

Pasteurization is not yet perfected by any means. It destroys the lactic acid bacteria, but not the spores of bacteria. In consequence, while the milk may not be sour two days after its receipt, it may have a putrid smell due to the butyric or putrefactive bacteria. The only milk fit for human food is clean raw milk kept continuously at low temperature.

The Rusty Can.

How about that rusty can problem, is it troubling you? There are thousands of cans being used in the older districts which ought to receive the hatchet treatment. Wouldn't it be a good plan for our inspectors to devote more attention to condemning rusty cans?

The Cooperative Creamery.

How about the cooperative creamery company which sends out a cream-gathering wagon into another's territory, and then howls about the central plant invading its territory? Reminds us of the old story about living in a glass house.

The Paying Cow.

In producing milk we get no returns from the food consumed unless the question of support is first satisfied. Therefore keep the cows which do not use the food nutrients for making beef, and then feed them all they will eat.

ANOTHER WESTERN CANADA RECORD.

The Way In Which a Swan River Farmer Became Wealthy.

Swan River, Manitoba, Nov. 21, 1906.

Two weeks ago we gave an account of the prosperity of a farmer in Western Canada, and this week we reproduce another.

"I have been asked regarding this year's work on my farm, and I herewith willingly submit the following statement:

"Three years ago I purchased an improved farm of 186 acres on Section 9, Township 36, Range 27 west of the First Meridian—two miles from the town of Swan River.

I plowed and cropped 122½ acres of land during this year (1906), 80 acres in wheat, 30 acres in oats, and 12½ acres in barley.

"The cost of putting in and taking off this crop this season is as follows:

Cash paid for blue stone	$ 1.50
Cash paid for binder twine	39.00
Cash paid for hired help	125.00
Cash paid for threshing	175.00
Total	$ 340.00

"Receipts for the year as follows—

80 acres of wheat (yielded 30 bushels per acre)—Total	2,400 bu.
30 acres of oats (yielded 46 bushels per acre)—Total	1,200 "
1 stack of oats in sheaf	200 "
12½ acres barley (48 bu. per acre)	600 "
Crop potatoes	300 "
Hay, tons	15

Sold.

1,168 bu. wheat at 62c	$ 724.16
1,232 bu. wheat in granary at 62c	763.84
300 bu. barley at 35c	105.00
300 bu. barley in granary at 35c	105.00
1,200 bu. oats in granary at 25c	300.00
100 bu. potatoes at 30c	30.00
200 bu. potatoes in root house at 30c	60.00
1 stack of oats in sheaf for feed	50.00
15 tons of hay at $3.00	45.00
Garden roots and vegetables.	30.00
Total	$2,213.00
Cost of above, besides my own labor	340.50
Balance	$1,872.50

I have in all, 125 acres ready for crop next year, including 10 acres cleared and broken this season.

Total Assets.

786 acres land, with house, stable and outbuildings, etc.	$5,000.00
Implements	500.00
4 head of horses, and harness	800.00

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

How a Veteran Was Saved the Amputation of a Limb.

B. Frank Doremus, veteran, of Roosevelt avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., says: "I had been showing symptoms of kidney trouble from the time I was mustered out of the army, but in all my life I never suffered as in 1897. Headaches, dizziness and sleeplessness, first, and then dropsy. I was weak and helpless, having run down from 180 to 125 pounds. I was having terrible pain in the kidneys, and the secretions passed almost involuntarily. My left leg swelled until it was 34 inches around, and the doctor tapped it night and morning until I could no longer stand it, and then he advised amputation. I refused, and began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The swelling subsided gradually, the urine became natural, and all my pains and aches disappeared. I have been well now for nine years since using Doan's Kidney Pills.

The Value and Importance of Ethical Remedies.

Remedies which physicians sanction for family use, as they act most beneficially and are gentle yet prompt in effect, and called ethical, because they are of

To gain the full confidence of the Well-Informed of the world and the approval of the most eminent physicians, it is essential that the component parts be known to and approved by them, and, therefore, the California Fig Syrup Company has published for many years past in its advertisements and upon every package a full statement thereof. The perfect purity and uniformity of product which they demand in a laxative remedy of an ethical character are assured by the California Fig Syrup Company's original method of manufacture, known to the Company only.

There are other ethical remedies approved by physicians, but the product of the California Fig Syrup Company possesses the advantage over all other family laxatives that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts, without disturbing the natural functions or any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of Syrup of Figs, and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtlessly it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs; and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for Syrup of Figs, or by the full name, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, as Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company, and the same heretofore known by the name, Syrup of Figs, which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

The balmy air of Spring has at last reached this latitude.

The crowd of fishermen multiply each succeeding day and stories do to.

Uncle Delos Burlingam came among his native relatives and is looking after his interests here. He has leased his house and lot on the corner of Austin and R. R. streets, to Mr. Ed. Burton, the new section foreman. Mr. B., is cozily situated in his new abode.

E. P. Councilman is looking on every train for his new auto. His customers will be reached more frequently when his new conveyance is installed. We will not be surpried if he enjoys some "fair" company when going on long trips.

Messrs. Conover and Barnes, detectives for the P. R. R., are digging into remote places, in quest of witnesses, to be used next term of Court, they having some peculiar evidence to gain to carry their point.

What some enjoy more than another, is when one neighbor gives little white roasts, as was the case of Elmer Ludwig and Harry Caskey, at their late local function. Some one is always slighted.

Mr. H. Hamilton has accepted a position on the P. R. R., with Mr. E. Burton. His work is very agreeable and only occasionally there are blasts of "brain storm" when some heated subject comes in sight.

On Friday last Miss Margaret Nickler closed a very successful term of school. Her pupils show that they had the right kind of training and she leaves with the best wishes of parents and scholars. It is hoped she may again be applicant for our school.

C. J. Howard is making a business like canvass for the nomination of county treasurer, and it is hoped he may be successful, as this township has never been represented in that office since the county was organized. Chas. bases one of his many claims on that particular point and never having held office, as is not the case of his many rival aspirants.

L. Crowley started up his mill in full blast last week, Dan'l O'Connell and Swan Peterson being chief dictators. One Will Sprague started out on a summer's job, but had the misfortune to get a finger sawed the first day, so he will abandon the life of the sawyer.

As to expert fisherman, Duke Evans takes the fish, instead of the cakes and cups, &c. He will give any other crack angler a race if he so desires. He has the magic lure for the bait and lands the big ones. So long—over the legal size.

Bitten by a Spider.

Through blood poisoning caused by a spider bite, John Washington of Bosqueville, Tex., would have lost his leg, which became a mass of running sores, had he not been persuaded to try Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes: "The first application relieved, and four boxes healed all the sores." Heals every sore 25c at druggists.

Origin of Two Familiar Proverbs.

It was the habit of the great Greek painter Apelles never to let a day pass, however busy he chanced to be, without practicing his hand by tracing the outline of some object, a custom which has now passed into a proverb—"No day without a line." He also made it a rule, when he had finished a canvas, to exhibit it to the view of those who visited his studio, while he himself, hidden behind the picture, would listen to their comments. It is said that once a shoemaker censured him for having painted a pair of shoes with one latchet too few. Next day the shoemaker, revisiting the studio, saw that the painter had corrected the mistake. He then began to criticise the leg of the portrait, upon which Apelles came forward and reminded him that a shoemaker should not go beyond the shoes, a piece of advice which has also crystallized into a proverb, "Let the cobbler stick to his last."—Pliny the Elder.

At Sea In a Coffin.

It was the French assassin Lupi who escaped to sea from Cayenne in a coffin. He managed to get some nails, tar and cotton, and one dark night he got into the coffin shed. He selected a fine, stanch and seaworthy coffin and fastened the lid in order to turn it into a deck, leaving a cockpit sufficient to enable him to crawl in. He calked all the joints as well as he could, and when this work was finished he made a pair of paddles out of two planks. Then he brought out his craft with great precaution. Without much difficulty he reached the water's edge. Silently and slowly he proceeded in the hope of reaching either Venezuela or British Guiana, 150 nautical miles distant. Fortunately or unfortunately for Lupi, the steamer Abeille, returning from the Antilles, off Paramaribo picked him up, half drowned and almost in a fainting condition, and a few hours later he was in irons in his cell.

The Battered Hobbyhorse.

A scarred and battered hobbyhorse, with one eye missing, its tale and mane reduced to ragged wisps of hair and a little leather saddle worn almost to fragments on its back, formed a part of the baggage carried by an aged couple in the Union station waiting room at St. Louis the other evening. It captured the interest of a crowd that gathered. The old man listened to the comments, some of them unkind jests. Then he spoke, almost in a tone of apology. "We're goin' to Texas, and we couldn't leave it behind," he explained. "You see, it belonged to our little boy that's dead. He used to set a might o' store by that old horse, and now it's all we've got to remember him by. We kept it all these years back in Indiana, and then when things got bad and our daughter down in Texas sent for us, why, we just packed up and started. Had to leave lots of things back there, but not that. We couldn't leave that, could we?" He turned to his wife. "No; we couldn't leave the horse," she said.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Pneumonia's Deadly Work.

Had so seriously affected my right lung," writes Mrs. Fannie Connor, of Rural Route 1, Georgetown, Tenn., "that I coughed continuously night and day and the neighbors' prediction—consumption—seemed inevitable, until my husband brought home a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, which in my case proved to be the only real cough cure and restorer of weak, sore lungs." When all other remedies utterly fail, you may still win in the battle against lung and throat troubles New Discovery, the real cure. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

RHEUMATISM

LAWRENCE TUSCANY.

It's quite a job to shake him off. It's hard to believe that all the pain and trouble he causes comes from such a little thing. Just a tiny bit of acid in the blood the kidneys haven't taken care of. But the kidneys aren't to blame. I used to think they were. Now I know better. It's that over worked and over crowded stomach giving the kidneys part of its work and the kidneys can't do it. I found this out with Cooper's New Discovery. It puts the stomach in shape, that's all it does, and yet I have seen thousands of people get rid of rheumatism by taking it. That is why I am positive that rheumatism is caused by stomach trouble. Here is a sample of letters I get every day on the subject.

"For a long time I have been a victim of sciatica and inflammatory rheumatism, and my suffering has been too great to describe. For weeks I lay helpless with every joint in my body so tender and sore that I could not bear to move. The slightest touch would cause me the greatest agony. Several doctors treated me but they failed entirely. I tried many remedies but nothing seemed to reach my case, so I continued to lay helpless. My kidneys and stomach were affected also. I could eat but little, digest less and gradually my strength left. I lost flesh rapidly."

"I began the use of the famous Cooper medicines of which I heard so much. To my surprise and delight I improved immediately, and after using several bottles I felt like another person. My strength and appetite returned. The pain and soreness left me and now I feel better than I have for months." Lawrence Tuscany, 1122 Aldrich Ave., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.
